

Living with Asthma and Bronchitis without the lifetime of side effects.

Transition to Inhaled Steroids for Better Quality of Life

Reduce Side Effects of Systemic Steroids by Delivering Medication Where it's Needed... in the Lungs.

- 25× lower concentrations of steroid when targeting the airways directly<sup>1</sup>
- Safer for long term disease control<sup>2</sup> – limited health and behavioral changes
- Easier for owners to administer<sup>3</sup>
- Recommended therapy just like in human children<sup>4</sup>, with similar respiratory tract deposition<sup>5</sup>
- Helps keep pets able and willing to play with their family

Side Effects of Systemic Steroids

“Health and behavioral side effects may reduce the quality of life of your pet and the family relationship.”

- Behavioral changes, including aggression
- Lethargy and no energy to play
- Increased thirst and loss of bladder control
- Greater risk of infections (bacterial, fungal, UTIs)
- Diabetes
- Weight gain / obesity
- Vomiting, diarrhea
- Cushings disease
- Immune suppression
